[Mr. Canning's first Letter.—We cannot avoid reminding the public, that the letter in our last [See Freeman's Journal of Monday] from Mr. Canning to Mr. Erskine, is the letter which Robert Smith, in the course of his correspondence with Mr. Jackson, declared would be found to contain a second set of instructions, authorising the arrangement made between him and Mr. Erskine in April last. The letter is now published, and so far from giving additional latitude to Mr. Erskine, is at least equally restrictive and precise with any thing before seen. STATE PAPERS.

GREAT BRITAIN & AMERICA.

Correspondence between Mr. Secretary Canning and the Hon. D. Erskine.

(Laid before Parliament yesterday.)

Dispatch from Mr. Secretary Canning, to the Hon. David Erskine, dated Foreign Office, Jan. 23, 1809.

SIR,

If there really exists in those individuals who are to have a leading share in the new administration of the United States, that disposition to come to a complete and cordial understanding with Great Britain, of which you have received from them such positive assurances; in meeting that disposition it would be useless and unprofitable to recur to a recapitulation of the causes from which the differences between the two countries have arisen, or of the agreements already so often repeated in support of that system of retaliation to which his majesty has unwillingly had recourse.

That system his majesty must unquestionably continue to maintain, unless the object of it can be otherwise accomplished.

But after a profession on the part of so many leading members of the government of the United States, of a sincere desire to contribute to that object in a manner which would render the continuance of the system adopted by the British government unnecessary, it is thought right that a fair opportunity should be afforded to the American government to explain its meaning and to give proof of its sincerity.

The extension of the interdiction of the American harbors to the ships of war of France as well as of Great-Britain, is, as stated in my other despatch, an acceptable symptom of impartiality towards the belligerents; the first that has been publicly manifested by the American government.—The like extension of the non-importation act to the other belligerent, is equally proper in this view. These measures remove those preliminary objections which must otherwise have precluded any useful or amicable discussion. In this state of things, it is possible for Great-Britain to entertain propositions which, while such manifested partiality was shewn to her enemies, were not consistent either with her dignity or her interests.

From the report of your conversations with Mr. Madison, Mr. Gallatin, & Mr. Smith, it appears,

1st. That the American government is prepared, in the event of his majesty's consenting to withdraw the orders in council of January and November 1807, to withdraw contemporaneously on its part the interdiction of its harbors to ships of war, and all non-intercourse and non importation acts, so far as respects Great Britain, leaving them in force with respect to France, and the powers which adopt or act under her decrees:

2dly. What is of the utmost importance, as precluding a new source of misunderstanding which might arise after the adjustment of the other questions, that America is willing to renounce, during the present war, the pretension of carrying on in time of war, all trade with the enemy's colonies, from which she was excluded during peace;

3dly. Great Britain for the purpose of securing the operation of the embargo, and of the [illegible] legislation of America to prevent her citizens from trading with France, and the powers adopting and acting under the French decrees, may be considered as being at liberty to capture all such American vessels as may be found attempting to trade with the ports of any of those powers; without which security for the observance of the embargo, the raising it nominally with respect to Great Britain alone, would in fact raise it with respect to all the world.

On these conditions his majesty would consent to withdraw the orders in council of January and Nov. 1807, so far as respects America.

As the first and second of these conditions are the suggestions of the persons in authority in America, to you, and as Mr. Pinkney has recently (but for the first time) expressed to me his opinion that there will be no indisposition on the part of his government to the enforcement of the naval power of Great Britain, of the regulations of America with respect to France, and the countries to which those regulations continue to apply, but that his government was itself aware that, without such enforcement those regulations must be altogether nugatory, I flatter myself that there will be no difficulty in obtaining a distinct and official recogoition of these conditions from the American government.

For this purpose you are at liberty to communicate this despatch, in extenso, to the American secretary of state.

Upon receiving through you, on the part of the American government, a distinct and official recogaition of the three abovementioned conditions, his majesty will lose no time in sending to America a minister fully empowered to consign them to a formal and regular treaty.

As, however, it is possible that the delay which must intervene before the actual conclusion of a treaty may appear to the American government to deprive this arrangement of part of its benefits, I am to authorise you, if the American government should be desirous of acting upon the agreement before it is reduced to a regular form, either by the immediate repeal of the embargo, and the other acts in question, or by engaging to repeal them on a particular day, to assure the American government of his majesty's readiness to meet such a disposition in the manner best calculated to give it immediate effect.

Upon the receipt here of an official note, containing an engagement for the adoption, by the American government, of the three conditions above specified, his majesty will be prepared on the faith of such an engagement, either immediately (if the repeal shall have been immediate in America) or on any day specified by the American government for that repeal, reciprocally to recal the orders of council, without waiting for the conclusion of a treaty.

And you are authorised in the circumstances herein described, to make such reciprocal engagement on his majesty's behalf.

I am, &c.
(Signed)
GEORGE CANNING.

Despatch from Mr. Secretary Canning, to the Hon. David Erskine, dated Foreign Office, May 22, 1809.

SIR,

Your despatches, Nos. 19 and 20, of the 19th and 20th of April, have been received and laid before the king.

I have lost no time in receiving his majesty's commands to signify to you his majesty's sentiments, on the manner in which you have executed the instructions conveyed to you in my despatches by Mr. Oakley.

It is much to be regretted that in the execution of instructions upon points of so much delicacy and importance, you should have thought yourself authorised to depart so widely, not only from their letter, but from their spirit.

With respect to the instructions relating to the Chesapeake, which from the subject of my despatch, No. 1, I have to remark, 1st. the total omission by you of a preliminary of the most material importance.—2dly. a departure from the terms of your instructions in the manner of conducting the negociation; and 3dly, the admission by you, and so far as appears, without remonstrance or observation of a note containing expressions offensive to his majesty's dignity, such as no minister of his majesty ought to have submitted to receive, and to transmit to his government.

1st. It is distinctly stated by me as the condition of his majesty "no longer insisting upon the recal of the proclamation as a preliminary to the adjustment of the difference arising from the affair of the Chesapeake," "that ships of war of France shall, in point of fact, have been excluded from the ports of the United States, and such ships of that description as were in those ports, shall have been warned to depart."

Of this condition you appear to have taken no notice whatever. The non-intercourse bill operated only to the prospective exclusion; but as to the warning to be given to any ships of war of France (if any such there were) in the ports of the United States, it no where appears that even a question was put by you on this subject, much less that you received any satisfactory assurance upon it.

2dly. But if this preliminary condition had been fulfilled, your instructions proceeded to state, that even then, "it would still be necessary that either the proclamation should be withdrawn or its operation formally declared to be at an end," "though it would be sufficient that such withdrawal or declaratio n should be recorded in the same instrument, or at the same time with the terms of reparation."

So far from this indispensable condition having been obtained by you, Mr. Smith, in the answer returned by him to your note, studiously avoids any thing like a recognition of the principle on which alone the demand of the formal recal of the Proclamation was to be waved; neither is the proclamation itself withdrawn, nor its operation declared to be at an end.

The obvious consequence of this omission is, that if the non-intercourse act, which is a temporary act, were to be suffered to expire, the proclamation might revive, and the inequality between the two belligerents be thereby restored.

It was obviously your duty, before you committed his majesty's name by a written offer of reparation, to ascertain in what manner that offer would be received, and answered; and if you found that the express condition either of the withdrawing the proclamation, or declaring its operation to be at an end, would not be complied with, to abstain from proceeding one single step in the negociation until you had referred home for further instructions.

That part of your instructions which directed that this arrangement, if not made the subject of consideration, should be settled by the exchange of ministerial notes dated on the same day, and reciprocally delivered at the same time, was expressly intended to guard against the possibility, of your committing yourself by a written proposal, in the uncertainty of what might be the nature of the answer to be returned to it.

His majesty will not suppose it that Mr. Smith's intended answer can have been communicated to you previously, and have obtained your approbation.

In the proposal for restoring the man taken from on board the Chesapeake, it was not intended that the condition of his majesty's right to reclaim them in a regular way from the American government, if either natural born subjects of his majesty, or deserters from his majesty's service, should have been omitted. I dwell however the less on this point, as his majesty's right, in this respect, is founded on public law, and does not require to be fortified by the recognition of any other government.

But I cannot forbear observing with regret that the bounty of his majesty, in the intended provision for the relations of the men killed on board the Chesapeake, is not only stated by you without a similar restriction, but is brought forward at once as a part of the reparation originally offered; and thus converted by you from an act of spontaneous generosity, into one of positive obligation.

3dly. In addition to the substance of Mr. Smith's note, which I have already mentioned, it remains for me to notice the expressions so full of disrespect to his majesty, with which that note concludes. And I am to signify to you the displeasure which his majesty feels, that any minister of his majesty should have shewn himself so far insensible of what is due to the dignity of his sovereign, as to have consented to receive and transmit, to be laid before his majesty, a note in which such expressions were contained.*

I am, &c.
GEORGE CANNING.

NOTE.

* The following is the offensive passage in Mr. Smith's letter to which Mr. Canning alludes:—"I have it in express charge from the president to state, that while he forbears to insist on a further punishment of the offending officer (admiral Berkeley) he is not the less sensible of the justice and utility of such an example, nor the less persuaded that it would best comport with what is due from his Britannic majesty to his own honor.

"I have, &c.
"R. SMITH."

PUBLIC ROBBERY.

The following list of defaulters, is taken from a report made to Congress by Mr. Duval, the comptroller of the treasury; the whole of them are democrats; and most of the sums are considered as lost. The remarks, at the bottom of each item, are made by Mr. Duval himself, and therefore may be relied upon. Well may our treasury be empty, when Mr. Jefferson's friends have had such good pickings. The democratic papers dare not publish this list. Shall we offer a bribe again to induce them to perform their duty?

David Duncan, Michilimacbinac absconded—two thousand dollars only will be secured.	32,575

There are a multitude of other cases reported to congress, which we shall not cite. One or two remarks will be useful. Three quarters of all the nominal balances against federalists are stated by Mr. Duval to be merely suspended on account of form, the money being really due to the individual, though for some reason, unimportant to the public, the accounts cannot be closed. On the other hand, the balances due from the democrats, are nearly all in suit or judgment.

One other remark we could make is, that the balance due, and the embezzlements of public money, are three-fourths of them by citizens of the southern states.

In some cases, as Michilimacbinac and

Detroit, it is believed that the amount embezzled must be the whole amount received.

One thing must appear very extraordinary—that such vast sums should have been advanced to Degen, Purviance & Co. who once stood indebted 165,000 dollars, when it is well known that our navy agents formerly were generally in advance to the U. S. this we know was the case usually with Messrs. S. Higgins & Co. in this town.—How happened it that such vast sums were produced to buy copper bolts, of which it should seem no part was furnished?

How happens it that officers who owe balances have absconded for the sum of 30,000 dollars, should only have given bond for 20,000 dollars? here is a defect somewhere—either in not taking sufficient bonds or in not compelling an earlier settlement.

It must be remembered, moreover, that Mr. Duval's report does not contain the heaviest delinquencies—only such cases where there is an account on the treasury books. The immense defalcation of Edward Livingston—of Brown, Clark, and others, which amount to 300,000 dollars, are not reported, because they are not yet ascertained at the treasury.

Mr. Donaldson, at Tunis or Tripoli, must have a most excellent chance. The documents in such cases must be loose; but he, it seems, has sent no account and no voucher for about half a million of dollars. This sum would pay off the whole state debt of Massachusetts.

The preceding is truly an important document, and deserves the serious attention of the people of America. The summary of these defalcations may be thus arranged—First we will deduct the balances appearing against Messrs. Monroe, Pinkney, Scott and Donaldson, who have no doubt accounts against their respective sums; and come at those which are ascertained—viz.

Absconded owing 32,575 dollars of which 2000 will be recovered,	$30,575
Judgment obtained for	60,000
In suit for	189,200
Suit ordered for	20,000
"In suit, judgment and desperate," says Mr. Duval from sundry defaulters to the southward of New York, (of course excluding the Tory-land of New England, and embracing the most patriotic part of the union) either too numerous to be specified, or not particularized from motives best known to Mr. Duval.	413,000
To which may be added, since this account was made up, Brown, the collector of New Orleans, and Clark, one of Mr. Jefferson's collectors in Massachusetts,	200,000
	922,870

A very neat amount, nearly one million of dollars, taken out of our now exhausted treasury, by exclusive patriots! All this comes from Mr. Jefferson's system of bestowing offices on professional patriots. If the amount of defalcation ascertained, is one million of dollars, what must be the amount not ascertained, and the amount of peculation?

Alexandria Daily Gazette.

SATURDAY, APRIL 21.

MARRIED, on Thursday evening last, by the Reverend Mr. Robbins, Mr. Robert Hunter, to Miss Unice Harley, of this town.

Equally appearances.—We state as a fact, that a gentleman in this city has received a letter from Mr. SHORT, (the gentleman whom Mr. Jefferson and Mr Madison nominated as minister to St. Petersburgh, and who was rejected by the Senate) who has lately arrived in London from Paris, which contains the following expressions in substance—

"I am now here, having thought it prudent to leave France while convenient, for the time is approaching when it will be very difficult for Americans to depart from France."

(Freeman's Journal.)

NEW YORK, April 18.

Latest from Cadiz.—Captain Burrows, who arrived here yesterday, sailed from Cadiz on the 2d ult. He informs the editors of this Gazette, that previous to his sailing, the merchants and others, who on the first approach of the French had put their property on board the shipping, had landed it again, as they considered Cadiz perfectly safe---They had plenty of provisions for six months, and more daily arriving, and what is of still more importance, they have discovered a new source of water, on the Peninsula, which afforded a plentiful supply. The English still held a fort on the opposite shore, which had been rebuilt, and occupied by the French, but was taken by English troops—Joe Bonaparte was with the French army, the number of whose troops was not known.

The force at Cadiz, says Captain B consisted of one thousand five hundred Eng. 4500 Portuguese, & 27000 Spanish troops; 7 Spanish ships of the line, 1 Portuguese, and a number of British men of war, gunboats, &c.

Death by Laughing at Congress.

(ANTICIPATED.)

London, May 12, 1810.

SINGULAR OBITUARY.

DIED—last evening, of a sudden and violent fit of laughter, the Hon. George Canning, Esq. This melancholy effect of a merry cause was induced by the receipt of dispatches from America, enclosing "Macon's bill No II" which repeals the non-intercourse law, and threatens to revive it, unless the British orders in council and French decrees are revoked! Mr. C. compared America to one of the prince of Wale's mistresses who gave him three months notice of her resolution that he must quit her bed and board, unless——but ere he finished his simile, a deadly risibility overspread his features—he was quickly seized with convulsive spasms—was speedily beyond the power of medicine—and laughed—and kicked—and died.

(Balt. Whig.)

FOREIGN ARTCLES.

We received but few additional articles of foreign news by yesterday's Boston mail.

The latest news from Cadiz is by way of London. The latter end of February, says an English paper of the 12th ult. the situation of Cadiz was favorable for a state of seige—and such is the information of Capt. Newman, arrived at this port. They have 130,000 barrels of flour; 15,009 regular and 5000 irregular troops in the city, under the command of the Duke of Alburquque, 4000 of whom are British, who arrived Feb 12. The whole population is about 130,000 souls. With the assistance of the English at sea Cadiz cannot be taken.

Captain Newman says, that the fortifications which the French throw up at night, are regularly demolished the next day by the Spanish gun-boats, &c. and many of the French troops killed.

It was expected in England, that Sir Sidney Smith was going to Portugal, with troops.

HELIGOLAND, Feb. 28.

The Danish troops a few days ago, began to form a numerous cordon of troops, from the mouth of the river Elbe as far as Kiel, with what design is not known. The fortresses along that cordon have also been put in a respectable state of defence, and supplied with a numerous artillery.

LONDON, March 9.

A NEW DECREE.

In a letter received yesterday from Holland, was enclosed the following abstract of a decree:

"The chief secretary of his majesty's Louis Council; authorised by the resolutions of the 1st of Feb. (No. 11) hereby acquaints the director of the customs, that it is his majesty's firm and positive direction that (provisionally) no American vessel shall be allowed to enter the harbors of this kingdom, under any pretext whatever, let the cargo consist of whatsoever it may. The place from whence she may come is of equal indifference; whether she may not have been in England or has not been visited by the flag of that nation on her voyage. Such vessels, on the contrary, will be permitted to return to sea directly, without being allowed to discharge even a part of their cargo. The director of the customs is ordered to give the necessary directions for the immediate and strict examination of these orders."

Congress of the United States.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, April 19.

[CONCLUDED.]

[Taken for the Alexandria Gazette.]

The commercial intercourse bill was passed—Ayes 61, noes 40, and the house adjourned.

FRIDAY, April 20.

Leave of absence was asked and obtained for the following gentlemen, from Monday next to the end of the session—Messrs. Seaver, Root, Holland, and Mathews.

A letter from Gen. Wilkinson to the speaker was read, asking the house to appoint an impartial tribunal to investigate his conduct, and that he might have an opportunity to confront his accusers, and meet the calumnies which are propogated against him. There was enclosed a letter to the secretary of war from Gen. Wilkinson, dated Oct. 18, in which the general demands an investigation of his public character.

Mr. Randolph, from the committee to whom the subject was referred, reported a bill for the reduction of the navy. [This bill proposes to sell all the GUN-BOATS, all the frigates except three, and all the other armed vessels except three—reserving the guns and equipments.] Referred to a committee of the whole and ordered to be printed.

On motion of Mr. Taylor the bill to continue the charter of the Bank of the U. S. was taken up.

Mr. Swoop moved to strike out from the 9th to the 62d line of the bill, in order to introduce an amendment authorising the president and directors of the bank, after the 4th of March, 1811, to augment the capital stock of said bank 12,500 shares, provided the U. S. shall become proprietor, and provided that the bank shall take in payment five millions dollars worth of U. S. stock bearing an interest of three per cent per annum; and that after the 4th of March, 1821, they shall be further authorised to augment the stock 12,500 shares, the United States being proprietor; provided the dividends made by the bank for the three years immediately preceding, shall have averaged eight per cent per annum—the secretary of the treasury to be a director ex officio.

[That part of the bill proposed to be struck out provides for the payment of one million two hundred thousand dollars to the bank.]

Mr. Taylor opposed the amendment.

Mr. Love followed Mr. Taylor in reply and in favor of the amendment in preference to the original bill, though he was opposed to both—He concluded by moving that the bill lie on the table, and that the amendment be printed. He afterwards withdrew this motion.

Mr. Finley replied to Mr. Love and advocated the extension of the charter.

Ran away from the subscriber, living at Mount Air, King George county, Virginia, on the 23d inst.

A BRIGHT mulatto man, named GRIFFIN; sometimes calls himself Griffin Berryman, about 26 years of age, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, well, though not very stout made, a very light mulatto, grey eyes, dark hair and whiskers neatly cut, being an excellent barber and accustomed as a waiter all his life, when spoken to abruptly is much addicted to stuttering—had on when he eloped, a blue round jacket with red cape and pantaloons of cloth, Suwarrow boots, white hat, and black handkerchief about his neck—it is probable he will change his dress as he has a variety of good clothing with him. Having gone off without any provocation, I have some reason to believe this fellow is making his way to Baltimore or Philadelphia, with an expectation of imposing himself as a freeman. If he is secured in jail so that I get him again, out of the state of Virginia or Maryland, or the district of Columbia, I will give Two Hundred Dollars; if otherwise secured so that I get him again, One Hundred Dollars.
